National Leadership Training -- TRAINING THAT WORKS

Gamaliel is an international organizing institute established to train leaders and organizers for the increasingly difficult task of building strong, stable and effective institutionally-based power organizations that can transform congregations and communities.

Gamaliel has more than 44 locally-controlled organizations operating in urban, suburban and rural settings in 16 states.

Its methods are based upon the experiences and reflections of men and women who have worked in this field for decades.

Topics covered during training include:

- Institutional organizing
- Using the tools of community organizing to develop strong congregations and other community-based institutions
- Methodology for building power
- Tools to make and sustain relationships
- Self-interest, the public arena medium of exchange
- Power analysis: understanding the "laws of the jungle"
- Building support with money and media
- The elements of good meetings
- Elements of a power organization
- Structuring personal and organizational time
- Strategic planning
- Political and economic analysis

Gamaliel has brought together people from its staff, consultants, board and affiliate organizations who are knowledgeable and experienced in community organizing as trainers.

Participants include clergy and lay leaders, as well as leaders from community organizations, unions and other community-based institutions from across the country.
